Suggestions as to Disposal of the

Surplus, Which Will Be

About $5,000.

After four months of endeavor, wherein each member and all collectively exerted every energy toward accomplishing satisfactory results, the committee having in charge the arrangements for the first prestury will hold its final meeting next Saturday night at the Arlington Hotel. The success that crowned the gladly given services of the committee is too well known to be recounted now. Public plaudits, well deserved, without a disturbing note to mar their harmony, have evidenced the universal praise of the people, both at home and abroad, and a record has been made that of the subcommittees and the main body but everything will be in readiness for Probable Amount of Surplus.

Chairman John Joy Edson, when asked today what would be the amount of the surplus left over from the inaugural fund after all bills were disposed of, replied that "I have now in round numbers $6,000 on hand," said Mr. Edson, "and bills outstanding will probably require $1,000 or $1,200 for settlement. The surplus therefore will be in all likelihood in the neighburhood of $5,000."

Mr. Edson said the disposition to be made of the surplus would be determined at the meeting Saturday night, and could not state what the committee would de regarding the disposal of the surplus have been made to the committee members, and consequently it is possible it may be divided. One idea that seems to be well thought of is to devote a portion to the purpose of meeting the expenses of the board of charities and corrections, and the balance to the emergency charity fund, which is under control of the District Commissioners. Another proposition that was favored in this connection included the appropriation for the charities and corrections convention, but suggested the use of the balance for buying books for the new public library, it being pointed out that such disposition would form a prece-dent that could be followed in future inaugurations with permanent good to the community. The expenditure of the sur-

MUSIC FOR THE EGG ROLLERS. Fourth Artillery Band Ordered Here From Fort Monroe.

The usual orders have been issued for the opening of the grounds immediately south of the White House Easter Monday for the use of the children of the District in egg-rolling and other pastimes peculiar to that holiday. Owing to the absence from the city of the Marine Band, which is now making a tour of the west, and the fact that there are no other governmental bands in the city, either at Washington barracks or at Fort Myer, it was feared that the children would be compelled to forego the pleasures of music at their Easter games. In order, however, that there shall be no disappointment on that score, it has been arranged for the 4th Artillery Band, stationed at Fort Monroe to provide the state of the sta tioned at Fort Monroe, to provide the cus-tomary music. This band has been ordered to take part in the Logan statue unveiling ceremonies Tuesday. In order, however, to insure the presence of the band in the White House grounds Monday morning orders have been given for it to come here Sunday night. The juvenile portion of the community will greatly appreciate this arrangement, as the "music of the band" is one of the pleasantest features of the Easter Monday celebration.

A $90,000,000 CLAIM. Includes Land on Which Washington

Monument Stands. According to a Jersey Shore, Pa., special in the New York World this morning, Willis Woomer, a New York Central conductor, accompanied by his father, is bound for Washington in the interest of a revolutionary war claim of $90,000,000 against the United States. Interest in the announcement is heightened somewhat by the statement that if the claim can be substantiated the Washington monument and several other public buildings will have to be moved, if the Woomers say so, because they stand upon the land claimed.

It is further said that during the revolutionary war Christian Pool, great-grandfather of Willis Woomer, also of J. W. Woomer of this place, was a wealthy druggist in Philadelphia. He was a patriot through and through, and when the Continental Congress needed money Pool came to the front and loaned them all of his ready cash. As a sort of security Congress deeded him a certain tract of land in what is now Washington city, and this is what Woomers are at present fighting for. The direct heirs, seven grandsons of Christian Pool, all reside in this state. They are John S. Woomer, Bedgo Woomer, Lexas Woomer, all of Tyrone; Porter Woomer of Curwensville, M. C. Woomer of Punxsatawney, Martin Woomer of Bald Eagle and J. S. Woomer of Altoona. The heirs, it is stated, have been working with all their might for the past four years to get the fortune, but it was only last week that they secured much encouragement, and it is also alleged an Althe case was notified by the government claim authorities to present the case.

The "government claim authorities" who would have charge of investigating such a claim are comprised in the United States Court of Claims. Inquiry there by a Star reporter developed that no such claim as the Woomers' was on file there, and noth-
